

FORMATION OF LANGUAGE SKILLS OF THEIR STUDENTS

Jo'rayeva Ma'mura Yunusovna

Annotation: Its effectiveness in the professional competence of a modern specialist the ability to maintain communication plays an important role. Of the participants in the dialogue to what extent is it ready for this process is certain during training depends on the formation of the necessary skills. In the early stages of the development of language teaching methodology, it is known that many methods of mastering the language, both theoretical and practical, were used. Today, however, there is an increasing demand for language acquisition based on need. Competency of professional communication in the article, its types, development of monological and dialogical forms of professional speech the methods are mentioned.

Keywords: language, language education, communicative competence, communication, professional communication, types of communication, language of expertise.

Introduction

It is known that language is a social phenomenon and is the main one of the members of society is a means of communication. People regularly communicate on their socio-economic, cultural-domestic, professional-field needs. Information and information in intercultural dialogue in the era of globalization the use, the ability to manage them within the framework of their own needs, necessitates the implementation of active socio-economic relations with different countries. The world of information that surrounds us today educates every person to achieve relevance in the process as well as in everyday activities to find out the necessary information, distinguish from them what is necessary for himself encourages to take and apply. Knowing several languages in the process and using them the importance of effective use is known to increase.

Effective implementation of professional communication by a specialist being able to deliver to others in an understandable way, fast to other people's caviar and it seems that he can understand correctly, react to it, enter into a discussion. Therefore, it is necessary to be formulated in education one of the base competencies is communicative competence. The term communicative competence was first coined by American scientist D. Applied in Himes studies. This competence refers to the feeling that language is appropriate in a given situation. In this, it is necessary to understand caviar and inform it and social applying rules to give meaning communicative competence denotes formed. D. The works of Himes dedicated to the development of communicative competence in the native language. Formation of communicative competence in teaching a second language and the issues of M. in the 80s of the XX century. Canal and M. Reflected in Swain's research.

Communicative competence in professional education interaction in the field the focus is on maintaining, since Professional Communication ensures cooperation between the productive forces of society. The communicative competence of a specialist is the following in the process of communication in his native language or in the official language of the state in which he lives, or in foreign languages there will be no moyon in their abilities:

- clear and understandable statement of caviar in oral and written way;
- it makes sense to put questions correctly as well as to the questions asked correct answer;
- being able to adapt to the communication situation;

- * adherence to the culture of treatment in the process of communication;
- * to defend his point of view, respecting the caviar of the interlocutor;
- being able to convince the interlocutor;
- self-control in conflict situations;
- making effective decisions to eliminate problems and conflicts, etc.

A. According to nine's interpretation, "... dialogue to achieve commitment it is necessary to learn to do" [nine. 1997: 8]. Confirmation of this caviar foreign in practical experiments, in particular, D. In Carnegie's works we can see. The fact that employees who have qualified to conduct effective communication in them have achieved competence in professional activities many examples are given.

It seems that the role and importance of professional communication in society is extremely important. Representatives of organizations, individuals on the work, with foreign partners, colleagues, leaders and subordinates the need to maintain daily communication is a certain level of knowledge, skills and ma presuppose to have spots.

Literature used:

1. Hymes, D. 1972. On Communicative Competence. In J. B. Pride and J. Holmes — (eds.), Sociolinguistics. Harmondsworth: Penguin. – pp. 269-293.
2. Kanale, M. 1980. Theoretical bases of communicative approaches to second language teaching and testing / M. Canale & M. Swaine // Applied Linguistics, No. 1. pp. 47-54.
3. Nain, A. Ya. 1997. The culture of business communication. Chelyabinsk. 256
- Carnegie Street, 2016. Mansab pillapoyalaridan kandai kytarilish mumkin. – Toshkent: Yangi asr avlodi. – 272 b.
4. Uzbek tilining izoxli lugati. 2002. 5 zildli. – Toshkent: "SHZME"
5. — Davlat ilmiy nashrieti, 2nd floor – 672 b. Kogan, M. S. 1988. The world of communication. – Moscow: Politizdat. – 320s.