

Tursunkulova Ugiloy

NavDPI faculty of Uzbek language and literature

Uzbek language and literature course 3rd year

THE RELATIONSHIP OF UZBEKI LANGUAGE TEACHING METHODOLOGY WITH THE SCIENCES

ABSTRACT: This article explained the issue of interdisciplinary integration, which is becoming popular in modern education. The article analyzed the advantages of teaching mother tongue in connection with exact sciences, we will explore the relationship between Uzbek language teaching methodology and the various subjects that are taught in schools.

Key words: mother language, exact sciences, integrated teaching, updated textbooks, quantity and number, graphic organizers, mathematics, geometry.

Uzbek language teaching methodology is a crucial aspect of language education in Uzbekistan. It is important to establish a strong connection between language teaching methods and the content of the curriculum. The way in which languages are taught can greatly impact the effectiveness of language learning. One of the key aspects of language teaching methodology is the use of various teaching techniques and strategies. Teachers must be able to adapt their teaching methods to suit the needs and abilities of their students. This can involve using a variety of resources such as textbooks, audio-visual materials, and interactive activities to engage students in the learning process. By incorporating different types of teaching methods, teachers can help students develop their language skills in a more effective way. It is also important for language teachers to integrate language learning with other subjects that are taught in schools. This can help students see the relevance of language learning in their everyday lives and in other academic disciplines. For example, by incorporating Uzbek language learning with subjects such as history, literature, and geography, students can see how language is interconnected with various aspects of their education. Another important aspect of language teaching methodology is the use of authentic materials in teaching.

Authentic materials such as newspapers, magazines, and videos can help students develop their language skills in a more natural way. By using authentic materials, students can learn how language is used in real-life situations and contexts, which can help them improve their language proficiency. In addition, language teaching methodology also involves the assessment of students' language skills. Teachers must be able to create various assessment tasks and activities to measure students' language proficiency and progress. By regularly assessing students' language skills, teachers can identify areas where students need additional support and guidance, and can tailor their teaching methods accordingly. Language teaching methodology also involves creating a supportive and motivating learning environment for students. Teachers must be able to create a positive classroom atmosphere where students feel comfortable expressing themselves and making mistakes. By creating a supportive learning environment, teachers can help students develop their language skills in a more effective way. It is also important for language teachers to keep up-to-date with the latest developments in language teaching methodology. By staying informed about current research and trends in language education, teachers can continuously improve their teaching methods and techniques. This can help teachers adapt to the changing needs and abilities of their students and ensure that they are providing high-quality language education.

The importance of teaching methods in language education cannot be overstated. The way in which a language is taught can have a significant impact on the effectiveness of the learning process. In the case of teaching the Uzbek language, it is essential to have a solid methodology in place that aligns with the goals and objectives of language education. The Uzbek language teaching methodology, or the methodology of teaching Uzbek language, is a framework that outlines the principles and strategies for teaching this language effectively.

One of the key aspects of the Uzbek language teaching methodology is its connection to the various fields of knowledge that are relevant to language education. This methodology recognizes that the teaching of language is not isolated from other academic disciplines, but rather is interconnected with them. As such, it incorporates elements of linguistics, pedagogy, psychology, and cultural studies to provide a comprehensive approach to teaching the Uzbek language. The Uzbek language teaching methodology also places a strong emphasis on the use of various teaching techniques and strategies to cater to different learning styles and preferences. This methodology recognizes that not all students learn in the same way, and therefore, it is important to employ a variety of approaches to ensure that all students are able to grasp the language effectively. By incorporating a range of activities such as role-plays, group discussions, and multimedia presentations, teachers can create a dynamic and engaging learning environment that caters to the diverse needs of their students.

Another important aspect of the Uzbek language teaching methodology is its focus on the development of language skills. This methodology recognizes that language learning is a multifaceted process that involves the development of listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills. To this end, the methodology provides a structured approach to teaching these skills, starting from the basic level and gradually progressing to more advanced levels as students become more proficient in the language. By focusing on the development of these skills in a systematic way, teachers can ensure that students are able to communicate effectively in Uzbek in a variety of situations.

The Uzbek language teaching methodology also emphasizes the importance of cultural immersion in language learning. This methodology recognizes that language and culture are intrinsically linked, and therefore, it is important for students to have a deep understanding of the cultural context in which the language is spoken. By incorporating elements of Uzbek culture into the language curriculum, teachers can provide students with a holistic understanding of the language and its cultural significance. This can help students to develop a deeper appreciation for the language and motivate them to continue learning and improving their language skills.

In addition to its focus on language skills and cultural immersion, the Uzbek language teaching methodology also places a strong emphasis on the use of authentic materials in language teaching. This methodology recognizes that language learning is most effective when students are exposed to real-life examples of the language in use. By incorporating authentic materials such as newspapers, magazines, movies, and music into the curriculum, teachers can provide students with a more realistic and engaging learning experience. This can help students to develop a deeper understanding of the language and its practical applications in everyday life.

Furthermore, the Uzbek language teaching methodology promotes the use of technology in language teaching. This methodology recognizes the potential of technology to enhance the learning experience and provide students with additional resources and opportunities for practice. By incorporating technologies such as online learning platforms, language learning apps, and multimedia resources into the curriculum, teachers can create a more interactive and engaging learning environment that caters to the digital age. This can help students to develop their language skills in a more efficient and effective manner, while also preparing them for the technological demands of the 21st century.

The Uzbek language teaching methodology also emphasizes the importance of continuous assessment and feedback in language teaching. This methodology recognizes that language learning is an ongoing process that requires regular monitoring and evaluation to track student progress and identify areas for improvement. By implementing regular assessments such as quizzes, tests, and oral presentations, teachers can gauge student proficiency and provide targeted feedback to help students improve their language skills. This can help students to stay motivated and focused on their language learning goals, while also enabling teachers to adapt their teaching strategies to meet the needs of their students.

REFERENCES:

1. Kasimova K., Matchonov S., Gulomova Kh., Yoldosheva Sh., Sariyev Sh. Methodology of mother tongue teaching. Tashkent:-2009. "Nasser" publishing house.
2. Ghulomov A., Kadirov M., Ernazarova M., Bobomurodova A., Alavutdinova N., Karimjonova M. Methodology of mother tongue teaching. Tashkent-2012.
3. Sadikov Q. History of the Turkish language. Tashkent:-2009. Tashkent State Institute of Oriental Studies.
4. Abdurahmonov G', Shukurov Sh., Mahmudov Q. Historical grammar of the Uzbek language. Tashkent:-2008. "Publication of the National Society of Philosophers of Uzbekistan".
5. Iskandarova Sh. A field-based approach to language systems. - Tashkent: Science, 2007.